MENTORS

WEEK TWO

FREELANCING

Every week we provide manuals to Mentees to help them get ahead in their career. They are not a necessity for your Mentor/Mentee relationship and the information contained within them is not a substitute for advice they may receive from a paid professional. We have advised each Mentee that their Mentor has not been trained on the information provided in the manuals. Our only hope is that by reading these manuals, Mentees can get a better idea about their career and form better questions to encourage a stronger bond with you. If the manuals do raise a question in the Mentee's mind, we encourage her to write it down to ask her Mentor in your one hour session per week. So, every week we'll be letting you know what information she is reading and questions you can ask her to encourage a better partnership.

THIS WEEK, SHE WILL BE ...

Understanding where she is on the journey to becoming a successful freelancer and identifying the next steps. This includes: doing more research into the industry, getting experience, becoming trustworthy in order to attract more gigs, growing her freelancing service, applying for jobs and following up after working with a client.

We have uploaded this information to mentorher.ie/freelancing, if you want to take a look.

QUESTIONS YOU COULD ASK...

- What is the next step that you need to take in order to become a successful freelancer?
- What will your next step involve?
- Have you made a plan of what you need to do next?
- What do you struggle with in terms of understanding the next step/the road to success?

Do you have any of your own experience that you can use to help your Mentee understand how to move her career forwards?
